

RAILROAD MEN WILL NOT STRIKE

Amendment to Erdman Act
Will Be Rushed Through,
Avoiding Danger

BOTH SIDES AGREE TO THIS SOLUTION

House Suspends All Other Business and Will Pass Needed
Measure Today

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The House unanimously passed the Newlands amendment to the Erdman arbitration act. The Senate then unanimously approved it, with minor changes made by the House. The measure then went to the President for signature.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—All danger of a strike of the 100,000 eastern railroad trainmen and conductors was averted today by an agreement of the majority and minority house leaders to suspend all other business and pass the perfected amendment to the Erdman arbitration act authorizing a federal mediation commission to settle all labor disputes.

The house judiciary committee met early and prepared to report favorably upon the Newlands amendment, with minor changes. The Clayton amendment will be ignored.

The perfected measure will be passed and signed by the President before night.

The Newlands amendment, to the Erdman act as expected to pass congress, provides for the arbitration of all disputes affecting wages, hours or conditions of employment of common carriers. Under it a board of mediation and conciliation is created, consisting of a commissioner and assistant commissioner, and not more than two other government officials to be designated by the President, whose offices in mediation may be invoked by one party to the dispute.

Controversies which cannot be decided by mediation of the board may be referred to an arbitration board of three or six members. If three is decided upon, one must represent the employers and one the employees, these to select a third. If of six, each side will have two, these selecting two others. Both parties are required to agree in writing to abide by the arbitrators' decision, which will be made a judgment by the federal courts. Arbitrators selected to settle any difference will receive a compensation fixed by the permanent mediation board. An annual appropriation of $25,000 is provided to defray mediation expenses.

CONFERENCE AGREED TO ARBITRATE MATTER

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The threatened strike of 100,000 operatives on the railroads east of Chicago has been averted.

This is assured as the result of the White House conference yesterday noon, attended by President Wilson, leaders of congress and representatives of the railroads and of the conductors and trainmen who had voted to walk out. At this gathering arrangements were perfected for the passage by congress of the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act, under which both sides to the pending controversy are willing to submit to arbitration. Assurances were given at the conference that this course would be followed.

Under the Newlands bill, to be rushed through congress today, a board of mediation will be created which shall be entirely independent of the department of labor. Under the bill also the board of arbitration to be chosen when efforts of mediation and conciliation fail, shall consist of six instead of three members, as at present. Two members of this board are to be named by the labor organizations interested, two by the railroads and two by the four arbitrators thus chosen.

In the event, however, that the four are unable to agree on the two remaining members the board of mediation is authorized to select these two. The power of naming these two members gives to the board of mediation its chief importance. Both sides had refused to arbitrate under the Erdman law in its present form, taking the ground that the present law does not provide for an adequate representation of employees and employers.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 15.—It was announced today that the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium will lose the $100,000 gift of the late A. D. Brown unless the Baptists of St. Louis and other sections of Missouri raise the $50,000 they agreed to get, by August 24. It was provided that this sum be raised before the $100,000 donation go to the sanitarium. Of this amount, $30,000 already has been raised but E. P. Nelson, chairman of the subscription committee, said today that he fears the remainder will not be forthcoming unless some wealthy friend of the Baptists donates it. WRECK INQUIRY TO BEGIN LATE TODAY

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—It was announced this morning that the coroners inquest on the victims of Sunday's Pacific Electric wreck would be delayed until late this afternoon. The condition of the injured in the hospitals is reported satisfactory. It is now believed that the total death toll has been reached, with fourteen. The railroad's inquiry board resumed its investigation today.

INQUIRY BOARD MAKES

PARTIAL REPORT ON WRECK

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—The Pacific Electric Railway Company board of inquiry, which sat yesterday to hear witnesses and investigate the cause of the Vineyard wreck, issued the following statement last night: The investigation seems to indicate joint responsibility on the part of Motorman Joseph Forster and Flagman E. Bartholomew. Motorman Forster is in a dazed condition, suffering from injuries to his head received in the accident, and it plainly appears that he is not yet himself nor in condition to give a clear and accurate statement of what transpired immediately before the accident. He is being examined by physicians as to his physical and mental condition at this time, and a further investigation will be had within the next day or two. The board of inquiry has not reached final conclusions.

Roy Francis of Oakland, Cal., smashed his engine here today and was compelled to withdraw.

WOMAN BICYCLIST ON LEFT SIDE OF STREET KILLED BY MOTORCYCLE

Confused by Approaching Machine, Woman Turns and is Hit by Machine Ridden by Lester Tubbs

Last evening soon before dark, Mrs. Ethel May Smith was killed in the collision of a motorcycle ridden by Lester Tubbs with her bicycle on North Main street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets. The woman's skull was broken in the fall. She was taken to the Santa Ana Hospital, but died within a few minutes after her arrival there. She had been in Santa Ana but three weeks, coming here with her husband, Roy Smith, and 16-year-old daughter from Springfield, Mo., and lived on Nakomis street between Hickey and Sixth streets.

Mrs. Smith was riding a new bicycle and was on the left side of the paved street, going north. Tubbs was riding south on his right side. There seems to be little question but what Mrs. Smith became confused when she saw the motorcycle approaching her. Her bicycle began to zigzag across the west side of the street, and Tubbs was unable to determine which way she would turn.

The motorcycle was slowing down as rapidly as possible. The pavement shows where he slid his wheel for thirty or more feet. He swerved his machine to one side, hoping to get around the woman and bicycle, but the frightened woman seemed to have lost all control of her bicycle and as Tubbs headed to one side the bicycle went in that direction also, and the collision was inevitable. In the crash, Mrs. Smith was thrown heavily to the pavement, and the motorcycle went over her. Tubbs was thrown.

It was just twilight when the accident occurred, and there was no difficulty in seeing objects upon the street for several blocks.

At the sound of the crash several persons living in the neighborhood rushed out, and in a few minutes a crowd had gathered.

Jury's Verdict

The verdict of the jury was: "Ethel May Smith, aged 29 years, came to her death by fractures of the skull sustained by being accidentally struck by a motorcycle being ridden by Lester Tubbs. We find that the deceased was riding on the wrong side of the street. Also said Lester Tubbs was riding at a high rate of speed and in excess of that provided by the city ordinance."

The Verdict is signed by E. A. Stockslager, foreman; G. W. Minter, I. O. Wilson, G. C. Baker, H. Diers, and R. W. Mead.

Tubbs told a straightforward story of the tragedy, and his statements were borne out by Theo. Palmer, the only eye-witness so far found by the coroner. Tubbs stated in regard to his speed that between Seventeenth and a point north of Washington avenue he was traveling at about thirty miles an hour. Knowing Washington avenue crossing to be dangerous, he slowed down for it to about twenty miles an hour, at which rate of speed he was going when he first saw Mrs. Smith upon her bicycle.

From the time Tubbs saw the bicyclist he began to slow down, and when he struck the bicycle he was probably not going over eight or ten miles an hour, else his heavy motorcycle would have slid along the pavement more than twelve feet, the distance it was found from where the body of the woman was picked up. There has been some criticism in the use of the words "high rate of speed," in that by some people "high rate of speed" might be taken to mean fifty or sixty miles an hour. No such high rate of speed was indicated.

Tubbs' Testimony

W. Lester Tubbs, who was riding the motorcycle, gave his testimony at the inquest held this morning by Coroner Winbiger. Tubbs lives at 901 Spurgeon street with his mother, Mrs. W. L. Tubbs. Lester had been at the home of his brother, John W. Tubbs, at the corner of Bush and Seventeenth, and was returning on Main street, approaching Washington avenue he slowed to about twenty miles an hour and was going at that speed when he saw Mrs. Smith on her bicycle on the west side of the tracks ahead of him about in front of H. G. Hall's place.

At first the woman turned toward the curb as though she was going to stop. Tubbs started to go to his left to pass her. Then the bicycle swerved toward the car tracks, and Tubbs then turned to his left and toward the curb. The bicycle also turned in that direction and the collision occurred. Tubbs thought she had jumped. His motorcycle struck the bicycle, and then he remembered seeing her as his machine went over her and as he was thrown over the bars. He fell about twelve feet away against the curb with the motorcycle partly on him. He was helped up by Theo. Palmer, the only witness to the collision, and helped take the woman to the hospital.

Tubbs said that approaching the woman he threw out his clutch and set the brakes. He thought the hind tire slid for about twenty-five feet. When a rider's weight is on the brakes, there is less weight on the rear wheel than usual, and a motorcycle will slide further than an automobile going the same speed.

FEDERAL OFFICERS KNOWN BY NUMBERS

Tells of Plans to Take Prominent Part in Presidential Race of 1908

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The Senate lobby committee resumed today with Mulhall, the self-proclaimed chief lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers, on the stand. Reed undertook the examination of the witness, who identified letters, among which was one in which Secretary Schvedtman of the manufacturers' association wrote Mulhall that "large things are brewing and there is every indication that in our tariff convention we will have with us a number of leading Republican congressmen and senators, and those higher than that."

On September 5, 1907, the secretary wrote Mulhall, according to his testimony: "You saw where Taft referred to the association at great length in his Columbus address. If now we succeed in getting the council's plan thoroughly established our power for good will grow right along, and next year we will be a factor in the presidential campaign."

Mulhall testified that while Cushing was secretary of the association he was very secretive. "We were known by number then," he said. "Vice President Sherman was No. eight, Littlefield No. nine, and I was No. twelve."

DESPERADO HOLDS OFFICERS AT BAY

BELLINGHAM, Wash., July 15.—The unnamed Canadian bandit who left Orcas Island in a skiff Sunday when officers believed all avenues of escape closed, was located today at the Shaw Island cannery. He is heavily armed and threatens to kill anyone attempting his capture. He threatened to wipe out the family of any man telling his exact whereabouts to the cordon of police which had surrounded the locality.

Sunday the bandit held up a launch owner and demanded to be taken to the mainland. The machinery broke and he was compelled to remain on the island. The bandit is one of two who held up two bank messengers near Nanaimo, B. C., robbing them of $2600. One escaped after a revolver battle with officers. The officers fear to close in on the cannery island, fearing the bandit will fulfill his threat to murder everyone in sight if an attempt is made to capture him.

PROTEST HOLDS BACK WORK ON LINE

Pres. Shoup Asks Assistance of County in Handling Question

DELAY IS CAUSED BY ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS

Connection With Richfield Via Olive and Line to Corona Next Step

The position of the Associated Chambers of Orange county in backing S. J. Jackman's protest on a curve into North Main street is all that is holding back the electric line into Orange, says the Orange News. The Pacific Electric Co. is ready to build immediately, but is restrained by the State Railroad Commission until the protest filed by the Associated Chambers is investigated.

The protest is based on the length of the proposed curve of the railroad into Main street. Jackman's effort is directed toward making a shorter curve than the one proposed by the company. Jackman succeeded in getting the Associated Chambers to back his protest.

The railroad officials called the local committee for a conference Saturday. D. C. Drake, N. T. Edwards and F. L. Ainsworth represented Orange.

General Manager Shoup told them that the company is ready, except for an agreement with the Santa Fe, which is being negotiated. He asked them to assist in getting the Associated Chambers to withdraw its protest, which in fact seems to have been dictated by the unfortunate activities of one Santa Ana citizen.

In case the protest is not withdrawn, the company will fight its case before the Railroad Commission, but that will require time.

The committee was assured that the extension of the road north is contemplated as the next development in this section. They were shown a map of the proposed connection with the company's line at Richfield, the proposed line crossing the river north of Olive near the Santa Fe railroad bridge. Mr. Shoup assured them that the Orange line is to be a through line, and that the Corona line will be built at an early date.

CHANCES ARE SCHOOL BOARD WILL NOT BE TRIED FOR OFFENSE

Continued Today to Sept. 17; Admit That Flag Was Not Flown Every Day

Today when the time arrived for the trial of the five members of the school board of the Fullerton Union High School the case was continued to Sept. 17. The five men are charged with failing to fly an American flag over the school buildings every day, in accordance with a state law. An old soldier swore to the complaint.

The school board from the first has admitted that there was technical guilt, but declared that with holding going on the circumstances were unusual. A flag-pole was erected, but it was thought best not to fly the flag from it while the case was setting about the base. There is every reason to believe that when the case comes on Sept. 17 it will be dismissed. There was no disrespect on the part of the five trustees, all of whom are known as loyal, patriotic citizens.

The papers sworn to by them show that they came across the Atlantic together, landing on American soil on Dec. 8, 1912. They were both born in Austria. Vobora is 23 years old and Cizek is 36. They are working in the beet fields at Delhi. As yet they can speak very little English, but by the time they get around to their final petitions they hope to be able to rattle off the language just as though they were born and raised here.

How Moose Jaw Got Its Name.

Moose Jaw is a strange name for a city, and it may be of interest to know how such a name was given. Some fifty years ago, so the story goes, a pioneer with his team of oxen and "prairie schooner," while passing along the banks of the river, was obliged to camp at this point, in Saskatchewan, on account of an accident to his cart as a spoke had fallen out during the day, and the wheel was falling apart. He looked around for something to insert for a temporary brace for the wheel, while his wife busied herself with the evening meal. The pioneer's child, while romping around, found the jawbone of a moose, which she held up to her father, who by this time almost despaired of finding something with which to mend his wagon, and was delighted to find that the jawbone exactly fitted the place of the missing spoke. The Indians thereafter named this part of the river "The Place Where the White Man Found the Moose Jaw." This accounts for the town's unforgettable name.—London Standard.

An Extensive Shave.

When Salmon P. Chase was a school-boy at Worthington, O., he was one day left at home with orders to kill and dress a pig while Bishop Chase and most of the older members of the family were gone. In telling of this experience he wrote in an old letter:

"I had no trouble in catching and slaughtering a fat young porker. I had the tub of water all ready for plunging him in, preparatory to taking off his bristles. Unfortunately, however, the water was too hot, or perhaps when I soured the pig I kept him in too long. At any rate, when I undertook to remove the bristles I couldn't start one of them. They were set! But that pig had to be dressed. I bethought me of my cousin's razor—a new one, just purchased by that spruce young clergyman. No sooner said than done! I got the razor and shaved the pig from tail to snout."

This is undoubtedly one of the most extensive shaves on record.

What Rules the World.

Many years ago John Brougham, Lester Wallack, Artemus Ward and others used to meet after the play at Windhurst's, in Park row, in New York. One night the question, "What rules the world?" arose, and various opinions were expressed. William Ross Wallace, who was present, retired before long and some time later called Thomas J. Leigh from the room and handed to him a poem which he had just written. Mr. Leigh read it aloud to the company, and Mr. Brougham made a happy little speech of acknowledgment. The thing was entitled "What Rules the World," and the first stanza ran:

They say that man is mighty,
He governs land and sea,
He wields a mighty scepter
O'er lesser powers that be.
But a mightier power and stronger
Man from his throne has hurled,
And the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rules the world.

Flashlight Pistol

An electric flashlight pistol looks so much like a real weapon that it might do duty in a pinch to scare off a burglar or other marauder, but it would do no more harm than to shoot a ray of light to light up a dark corner. It is built on the lines of the modern repeating pistol, and is made of blue pressed steel. The handle contains a small battery, and the barrel a tiny tungsten incandescent lamp. Pulling the trigger causes the lamp to glow.

ASK ORANGE TO INSPECT GAS METERS

Justice Fullerton Wants to Know Why His Gas Bills Have Been Going Up

At Orange the Matter May Be Out of Jurisdiction of the City Trustees

ORANGE, July 15.—Justice of the Peace James Fullerton wants Orange to have a meter inspector, such as Santa Ana once proposed to have but never established. Last night Fullerton appeared before the city trustees and gave as his reason for wishing an inspector his firm conviction that meters ought to be tested in order to give patrons a fair deal.

Fullerton talked from figures. He said that in the last four years so far as he can see about the same amount of gas has been used each year at his home. Yet the monthly bills are gradually climbing up. In 1910 his gas bills averaged $3.95 per month. In 1911 the average was $3.97. In 1912 it was $4.51 and for the first six months of 1913 the average was up to

The city trustees replied that they did not know whether or no they had authority to inspect meters, since Orange voted to turn over to the State Railroad Commission its regulation of public utilities. A committee was appointed to look into the matter, mainly to see if the city can inspect the gas meters.

The city trustees asked the Santa Fe to establish warning signals at Walnut and Almond crossings.

Jelly Custards

One scant coffee cup sugar, one-half cup acid jelly, one heaping tablespoon cornstarch, two cups sweet milk, yolks two eggs beaten light, butter the size of walnut. Sift cornstarch and sugar into a bowl, stir the milk over this, beating constantly to prevent lumping, then add the well beaten egg yolks. Place jelly and butter on stove to melt and beat them slowly into the first ingredients. Set on stove and cook until mixture begins to thicken; stir constantly to prevent scorching. Pour into a baked crust and make meringue for top of whites. Set in oven for a few minutes until golden brown. It must be perfectly cold before serving.

referendum petitions should be treated by the voters as responsible acts. No voter should sign a petition merely as a favor to someone who asks him, unless he is the sort of person who would vote for the same conditions as a personal favor to somebody. If voters will learn to regard the signing of an election petition in the same manner as they already regard the casting of an election ballot, there will be no need to interpose merely formal mechanical obstructions to the free invoking of the initiative and referendum. Every such petition which represents a real sentiment or the real interests or prejudices of any considerable class of people will have no difficulty in securing the legal number of signatures. Any petition, however, which represents nothing but the ability of some individual or class to hire canvassers will fail of itself. Either the canvassers will quit the job because they cannot make a living on any ordinary commission, or their employers will call them off because the cost is too high if the price of names goes up. It is for the people themselves to determine how responsibly they will exercise this new and somewhat unfamiliar privilege, but inasmuch as they are already exercising responsibly the old familiar privilege of voting, there seems to be little reason to doubt that they will soon set for themselves the same standard for the newer privilege.—Fresno Republican.

FREE GOVERNMENT

The world is governed by the people who care. This is true under despotism, a monarchy, a republic or a democracy. The man with a large and expansive don't-care attitude pays the freight. He pays it under every form of government. The people who do care will rule if they care enough under any form of government. The object of a free government is to make it easy for the people who do care to rule without too much trouble and without too much cost of time and exertion. Universal suffrage, the primary, the initiative and referendum and recall—these are instruments to make it easy for the people who care to rule. They may at one time or another compose but a small minority of the people. But if the gates are open, if all avenues of approach to power are free, then if the don't-care attitude let the 10 per cent minority run the government, it is still a free government, and no one can complain. There is no sense in providing for compulsory voting; for if people don't vote, they don't think, and if they don't think enough to vote their votes aren't worth much.

In a free government, if the minority rules, it is the rule of the fittest. If it isn't the best rule, it's at least as good a rule as the majority deserves. So let us go jogging on down to Armageddon, serene in the faith that it will all come out in the wash.—William Allen White in California Outlook.

WHAT IS DOING ABROAD

(By Ed. L. Keen, London Correspondent United Press)

LONDON, July 15.—England is having a lot of trouble these days trying to decide just how far the private conduct of a public man affects the value of his service to the state. On top of the recent turmoil over the dealings of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George and Attorney-General Sir Rufus Isaacs in American Marconi shares, comes the case of the brilliant Liberal, Capt. Elliot Crawshaw-Williams, until a short time ago member of parliament for Leicester.

When Hubert William Carr-Gomm, also a Liberal representing the London district of Rotherhithe in parliament, whose young and beautiful wife has been one of the most popular members of English society, brought suit for divorce, he named Crawshaw-Williams as co-respondent. Purely in reference to public opinion and to precedent Crawshaw-Williams at once resigned. As Leicester is a strong Nonconformist center, and as Crawshaw-Williams is a Nonconformist himself, prompt and vigorous attack began upon him throughout the district. The Leicester Mail led the onslaught.

Crawshaw-Williams' peculiar creed has produced widespread public discussion. It is altogether unlikely that he will be able to break down past traditions. A note of tragedy is added to the case in the fact that he is a man of strong ambitions as well as signal ability. Only 24 years of age, and having been parliamentary secretary to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, his early promotion to the ministerial bench was practically assured, but the divorce suit undoubtedly means his political extinction.

It is recalled that similar suits were responsible for the ruin of such men as the late Sir Charles Dilke and Charles Stuart Parnell. Dilke was a cabinet minister, when he was named in a divorce proceeding, and his resignation followed immediately. Some half a dozen years later he re-entered parliament and remained there nearly twenty years but no Liberal premier dared outrage public opinion by including in his cabinet perhaps the most brilliant politician of the past thirty years. After the famous O'Shea divorce case, Gladstone and other English Liberals requested Parnell to retire from the chairmanship of the Irish party, and although he declined he was outvoted by his followers, 44 of whom deposed him in favor of the late Justin McCarthy. At the 1892 election only nine Parnellites were returned out of 81 and the great Irish leader died a broken-hearted man.

In English court circles connection with divorce cases has long been frowned upon, the late Queen Victoria having even the innocent parties receiving innocent parties and even occasionally recognizing co-respondents who had been unable to disprove the charges against them. This, however, was never on great state occasions, and under the Puritan rule of Queen Mary divorces and co-respondents are totally excluded. Much comment was caused recently by the presence of Lord Hamilton of Dalziel at the Derby Day banquet given by King George but the banquet was given to members of the Jockey Club and it being a private affair for men only, the King evidently saw no reason for barring Lord Hamilton, who was co-respondent in the divorce suit brought by the Hon. William Lawson a couple of years ago. Hamilton, who was formerly a lord-in-waiting to the king, married the lady immediately after the divorce but neither he, nor his wife are officially received at court.

The domestic infidelities of the dual houses of Westminster and Marlborough have resulted in the exclusion from court of the dukes, though no actual legal proceedings have been taken. Both the duchesses, however, are still received by Queen Mary.

The leading figure in the widespread campaign of tax resistance as a part of the woman suffrage crusade is the Duchess of Bedford. Following her refusal to pay taxes, the government levied on the Princess Skating Club, of which she is owner.

"My reason for resisting the payment of a property tax," she explained today, "is that I consider it unjust that women should have to pay taxes when they have no hand or voice in the making of the laws which enforce them. I also wish it to be known that in spite of the tactics adopted by the Women's Social and Political Union, I am not deterred from declaring myself in favor of modified woman suffrage. There are many women in favor of the franchise who have not given any public support because they do not wish to be identified with militancy. By this holding back they lend support to the impression that there is no great demand among women for the franchise. There are also many women who have not studied the question at all and who associate it only with the breaking of windows and the burning of houses. If these women went into the study of woman suffrage they undoubtedly would become ardent crusaders for the cause."

BENT BACK THE RULE.

Where Sauce For the Goose Was Not Sauce For the Gander.

In the early days of a certain club of New York, when it was rather harder sledding for the club than it is at the present time, in a meeting of the council the question came up as to the arrears of members' dues, and the treasurer reported that one man was particularly recent in this regard. It was in the winter, and the club was then maintaining throughout the day and evening beautifully heated and lighted quarters. At this time the only person in the club who frequented it every day was this delinquent, who, in addition to doing a large portion of his writing there, was accustomed to make considerable inroads upon the stationery of the club for home consumption.

At the meeting of the council referred to there was protest against this state of affairs, and a determination was manifested to put an end to it, and after discussion the secretary was instructed to notify the member in question that his name had been dropped from the rolls of the club.

The question then arose whether there was anybody else who was in arrears, whereupon the treasurer reported that this was true of another member.

"Who can that be? Let us make an example of them both," remarked one member, bringing his fist down on the table for emphasis. The reply was that it was Mr. X., the poet.

"Oh, heavens!" replied another. "We can't let X. go. He's too important to the club."

Whereupon the resolution was then amended to read as follows: "Resolved, that the secretary be instructed to drop the name of Mr. X. from the rolls of the club for nonpayment of dues and to retain the name of Mr. X. for the same reason."—Century.

THE COUNTRY BANKER.

His Standing In and His Grip Upon His Own Community.

The first public convenience a new commodity wants is a bank. Oftentimes it comes before the church or a newspaper; but, as a rule, it follows both. It is hard to beat the editor and the preacher.

If the influence exercised by the bankers of our great cities constitutes a menace to the public welfare, what shall we say of the grip that the little bank holds on its community? The so-called "country banker" to succeed must be eminent for all the qualities that make up a truly good man. Usually he is a church member and often a Sunday school teacher. He is consulted by politicians regarding the local government, and the candidate who has his approbation is envied, for he is usually the winner. To the country banker are confided the troubles, domestic as well as financial, of all who have access to him. And everybody seeks to have access.

The banker is first to subscribe to every good cause. He is the community's adviser as to investments and the arbitrator of its business controversies. His word is as good as his bond, and to his credit it must be added that, with rare exceptions, it deserves to be. He asks few favors, and these are always granted. He is the center of the social life of his vicinity. His voice is that of authority. He is loved, respected, admired and feared. The banker is a man of integrity. The slightest cloud on him or on his bank will settle them both. In this matter he stands with the preacher. So, from selfish considerations, if from no other, the banker must be deserving of the trust reposed in him by his fellow citizens.

Who wouldn't be the country banker?—Leslie's.

Ancient Tipping.

Tipping is an exaction of no recent origin. Describing life at the court of King Henry II. of England, Peter of Blois complains of the impertinence of the medieval marshals, whose annoyances continue "until they get something from you and are most ungrateful when they have—nay, open enemies unless your hand is continuously in your pocket," while the "outer porters will tell you the most unblushing falsehoods, and if you are an honest and religious man, but have given them nothing the day before, they will keep you an unreasonable time standing in the rain and mire."

Her Last Card.

"I want a new bonnet, but my husband says he can't afford it."

"Is that final, do you suppose?"

"He says it is, but I won't know until tonight."

"Going to get a definite answer then?"

"Yes. I'm going to settle it one way or the other. I'm going to start to cry when he gets home, and if that doesn't work there'll be no new bonnet."—Detroit Free Press.

All's Fish For the Doctor's Net.

"Why, the size of your bill," cried the angry patient to the doctor, "makes me boil all over!"

"Ah!" said the eminent practitioner calmly. "That will be just $20 more for sterilizing your system."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Purpose and Success.

It is the old lesson—a worthy purpose, patient energy for its accomplishment, a resoluteness undaunted by difficulties and then success.—W. M. Punshon.

It is seldom that punishment, though lame of foot, has failed to overtake a villain.—Horace.

"Why was Mr. Jabbs ashamed to do business openly? Was there anything wrong about him?"

"What do you mean by not doing business openly?"

"I heard pa say he made his money in corners."

From the Caterer we take the following recipe, and for family use each can reduce the quantities to suit. Even in using the leaves and poorer parts of one head only the receipts of the best chefs will be a good foundation for experiment and adaptation.

Remove the outside stalks from 12 heads of celery, keeping the hearts to be eaten raw. Cut up these stalks in small pieces, wash well, drain and set in a pan with a piece of butter; cover the pan and cook over a slow fire.

When the celery is nearly done, moisten with one gallon of lightly thickened chicken or veal stock, allow to cook for 15 minutes, and then rub through a fine sieve; pour the soup into a clean pan, let boil and clean from scum. Season with salt, pepper and a pinch of sugar, and before serving bind with one pint of cream, six eggs and four ounces of butter. Serve small fried crusts of bread separately.

Ham and Eggs

"How will you have your eggs cooked?" asked the waiter.

"Make any difference in the cost of 'em?" inquired the cautious customer with the brimless hat and the ragged beard.

"No."

"Then cook them on a slice of ham," said the customer, greatly relieved.—Smiths Weekly.

Punishment For a Thief.

"Richard, by the grace of God, king of England. * * * If any one cast any reproach or bad word against another or invoke God's malison on him let him for every offense pay an ounce of silver. Let a convicted thief be shorn like a prizefighter, after which let boiling pitch be poured on his head and a feather pillow be shaken over it so as to make him a laughing stock. Then let him be put ashore at the first land where the ships touch. Witness myself at Chignon." These are two of the ordinances of Chignon quoted by Miss Maude M. Holbach in "In the Footsteps of Richard Coeur de Lion."

Sharp Practice.

"I took her home in a taxicab. She asked me to come in and meet her mother. I told the taxicab man to wait. Her mother proved very entertaining."

"Yes."

"The taxicab man waited two hours."

"What's the answer?"

"Why, I found out afterward that her mother was a stockholder in the taxicab company."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Awkwardly Put.

This is one of the things one would rather have put differently: Mr. Bonbleup at fancy dress ball—I must apologize for coming in ordinary evening dress. Hostess—Well, you really have the advantage of us. We're all looking more foolish than usual, and you're not.—London Punch.

Crushed.

"If I could only die and leave you well off," he said after they had had their first quarrel, "I would be glad to go."

"How," she cruelly asked, "could you die and leave me otherwise than well off?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Rather Harsh.

The famous baritone had been giving his concert and the critic from the country was asked:

"How was the timbre of his voice?"

"Well," said the critic, "it seemed to me to be full of knotholes."—Harper's.

SOCIETY

ORANGE COUNTY HONORED

Three Local People in List of Officers of State Christian Endeavor Society

Last evening saw the close of the twenty-sixth annual Christian Endeavor convention in Los Angeles, the greatest and most enthusiastic gathering in the society's history. Thousands of delegates gathered from all parts of the world for this convention and all of them are going home with a great admiration for Southern California. It was the opinion of the delegates that Southern California was the most beautiful meeting place of any of the international Christian Endeavor conventions.

The delegates of the state union who merged their annual convention with the international gathering held a special meeting yesterday for the election of their officers for the coming year. This county is well represented in the new staff of officers. Miss Lula Minter has been re-elected to the position of corresponding secretary and Herbert Rankin, also of Santa Ana, has been advanced to the office of general secretary. Miss Mabel Cutler of El Modena has been re-elected to the office of junior superintendent. This is the third year that these three officers from Orange county have held office in the state union.

Mr. Rankin's new office is in reality a promotion, he having held the position of treasurer for the past two terms. In his new position he has strong chances of reaching the president's chair in two or three years.

The re-election of these three Orange county people speaks well for them and also the Christian Endeavor of the state. The local officers have always been very faithful and earnest in the society's work and their selection shows the esteem and friendship in which they are held by their associates in the work.

The new president of the state union is W. P. Willemott of Fresno, who led that delegation at the Christian Endeavor convention here a year or so ago.

Paul C. Brown was re-elected to the office of field secretary. Mr. Brown has filled this office for a number of years and will be remembered by many of our local people.

The couple have both spent their youth in Garden Grove and are very well known there. Mrs. Forrey was a member of this year's graduating class of the Santa Ana high school, where she had a wide circle of friends. Mr. Forrey was formerly a clerk in the bank at Garden Grove. It is understood that the happy young couple will spend their honeymoon touring the state in their automobile.

The best wishes of their numerous friends for a long and happy life go with them.

Former Society Man Under Assumed Name Found at Camp Near Taft

TAFT, Calif., July 15.—That Drew Caminetti, who has been indicted by the United States grand jury for white slavery, has been in Taft since some time in June became known today when one of his mates working on a pipe line crew tipped off that Caminetti, known to the men of the crew as "Blackie," had repeatedly telephoned some unknown place and asked for messages for Drew Caminetti.

Caminetti came to Taft shortly after June 1 from Sacramento and immediately hired out to a pipe line construction company. Because of his past knowledge in handling men, he was after several days put in charge of a crew. The sun of the desert, coupled with the necessity to be out in its blazing rays day after day, tanned him until he was almost black, because of this, the men of his crew nicknamed him "Blackie."

For the past several days Caminetti has been endeavoring to stave off going north to appear in court, and it is because of this passing of a number of messages back and forth that Caminetti was noticed and his identity made known. His employers, who are positive of his identity, are high in praise of his work, and are hoping that he will return to the fields after he appears in court, if he is given his liberty.

It is evident that it has been hoped to him that his identity is known, for every effort to locate him at his humble tent home just inside the city limits was unavailing.

FOREST NOTES

France has spent $35,000,000 in planting trees on the watersheds of important streams.

According to the Canadian Forestry Association, 50 per cent of Canada is capable of growing nothing but timber crops.

Ammonia bombs are being tried out on some of the national forests for the purpose of extinguishing forest fires. They are said to have worked well in the case of brush fires, where the fire-fighters find difficulty in getting near enough to the burning area to beat out the flames. Each bomb exploded will extinguish fire in a circle of about five yards in diameter.

The Western Pacific Railway has instructed its engineers to report fires along the right-of-way where it traverses the Pumas national forest, California. The location of fires is indicated on a card dropped by the engineer or fireman to the next section crew met after the fire is discovered. It is then the duty of part of the section crew to go back on handcars or speeders and put out the blaze.

More persons make use of the national forests in Utah than in any other state. Nearly 27 per cent of all the permits for sheep and cattle grazing on the forests are taken out in this state. This does not mean, however, that Utah carries one-fourth of all the national forest cattle and sheep; it happens that many small grazing interests make use of the forests there; and individual flocks and herds are larger elsewhere.

WIERD YARN COMES FROM HARBOR CITY

Los Angeles Man Alleged to Have Been Eaten by Sharks Off San Pedro

SAN PEDRO, July 15.—To make a desperate struggle to prevent death from drowning, only to be pulled under the water and probably devoured by man-eating sharks, was the awful fate that befell A. R. Blower, ten miles off the breakwater, late yesterday afternoon.

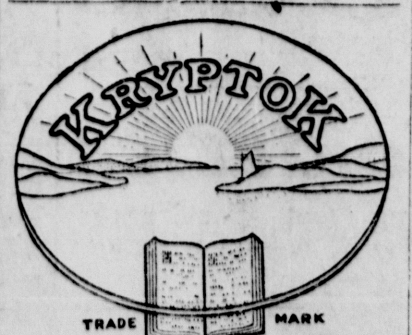

Blower, in company with Oscar Melving, Joe Pabstall and Wilbur Pierce, all members of Los Angeles lodge No. 102, Order of Eagles, were returning from the isthmus, on Catalina Island, where they had been on a fishing trip in the launch N. T. I. Harry M. Bomberg, son of the owner of the boat, was at the wheel.

In attempting to fill a bottle with salt water, Blower fell overboard. The launch was quickly brought about and Blower was seen swimming for several minutes. When the boat was only a short distance away from the unfortunate man, he disappeared quickly under the water and in a few seconds a school of big, man-eating sharks were thrashing up the water near where he sank. Blower was a strong swimmer, and there is little doubt but that he fell a victim to the sharks.

Blower's friends searched the sea but could find no trace of his companion. Upon arriving here they went immediately to Los Angeles last night and reported the death of Blower at Eagles' headquarters there.

WATERS THAT FLOW TWO WAYS

At Some Seasons They Empty Into the Arctic Ocean, at Others Into the Atlantic

The United States Geological Survey has just published a report (Water-Supply Paper 395) containing the results of river flow measurements made during the year 1911 in the Hudson Bay and upper Mississippi river basins. Because the dividing line between the Mississippi river drainage basin and that of Hudson Bay is indefinite and in many places cannot be determined, the consideration of these two basins in connection with their water supplies and the uses that can be made of this resource must logically be taken up together. In fact, in northern Minnesota there is a great area of land so flat that its waters sometimes flow into Hudson Bay and sometimes into the Gulf of Mexico. There are times when certain lakes discharge at both ends, the northern outlet taking the flow through Red River or Rainy River into Lake Winnipeg and thence into Hudson Bay, while the southern outlet leads to the Mississippi.

The stream-gauging work carried on by the Geological Survey in Minnesota and Illinois was performed in cooperation with these states.

The westernmost river covered by the report is St. Mary River, which rises in Montana, crosses the Canadian boundary, and empties into the Saskatchewan. The other rivers are largely those of North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin, although considerable information is contained concerning the rivers of Illinois and Iowa, which empty into the Mississippi.

A copy of Water-Supply Paper 395 may be obtained free on application to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Straightening Walking Sticks

Walking sticks as they grow are often crooked and have to be straightened. A heap of sand is provided on the top of a hot stove, into which the sticks are plunged until they become pliable. The workman takes an crooked stick while it is still hot and inserts it in a notch cut in a stout board, placed at an angle inclined from him, where he bends and straightens it. When it has become perfectly straight it is thrown down a cool, after which it becomes rigid and permanent in its lines.

Wild dog-like dogs are still found in the remote parts of Ireland. They have soft, round ears, rather pleasant, round faces, and can easily be tamed if they are caught young. MAY MAKE ITS OWN ARMOR PLATE

Government Could Save Three Millions Yearly by Plan, Says Sec'y Daniels

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Naval experts' figures showing that a government armor plate factory costing $8,466,000 would save $140 a ton on armor, or more than a million dollars net a year, were submitted to Congress yesterday by Secretary Daniels. The Secretary's report was sent in response to a Senate resolution and supplanted previous statements issued by him advocating a government owned armor plant.

Millions can be saved either by operating a government plant or by compelling competition among the private manufacturers, Mr. Daniels declared.

Reviewing the situation in his report, the Secretary said the accepted plan had been that the Bethlehem, Carnegie and Midvale plants should be given the armor work at practically their own prices.

He explained that the European countries, France, Italy and Russia, have sought relief from the high cost of armor plate by the operation of government-owned plants, while Japan has built two government factories. He found the same subject agitated in England, where many charges of monopolistic agreements and extortionate prices have been made.

"The English manufacturers appear to have been able to keep up a higher price for armor than those in the United States," he added.

Although money for an armor plate mill was provided in an appropriation bill passed at the beginning of the second Roosevelt administration, after an investigation, the plant was never constructed. In consequence, according to Secretary Daniels, the armor plate manufacturers were allowed to jump their prices from $346 a ton in 1906 to $420 a ton in 1907 and to keep at that figure until last year, when they were advanced under the excuse of increased prices caused by the eight-hour law, to $454 a ton. As to the expense of a government plant and the saving to be thus accomplished, Mr. Daniels said:

"The cost of a plant capable of turning out ten thousand tons a year which is about half of the armor needed on a two-battleship program, is estimated by the chief of the Bureau of Ordnance at $8,466,000 and the cost of the armor at $314 a ton. "On 10,000 tons the government would save $1,400,000 per annum. Deducting 4 per cent as the interest on the money used in building the plant, there still remains a net saving to the government of $1,013,630. In the case of the 20,000-ton plant, which it is estimated can produce armor at $279 a ton, the net saving is $3,048,462.

Los Angeles Women Say They Looted Stores on Direct Orders From Heaven

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Three women arrested in a downtown department store yesterday, charged with shoplifting, solemnly assured the police that "an order from heaven" commanded them to "go forth and gather the spoils."

Garbed in quiet black raiment, which accorded well with an air of sanctimonious superiority, the trio, all related, told with apparent sincerity of the "Church of the Firstborn," of which they professed to be missionaries. They cheerfully sang hymns or eagerly explained to the uninitiated the mysteries of their cult.

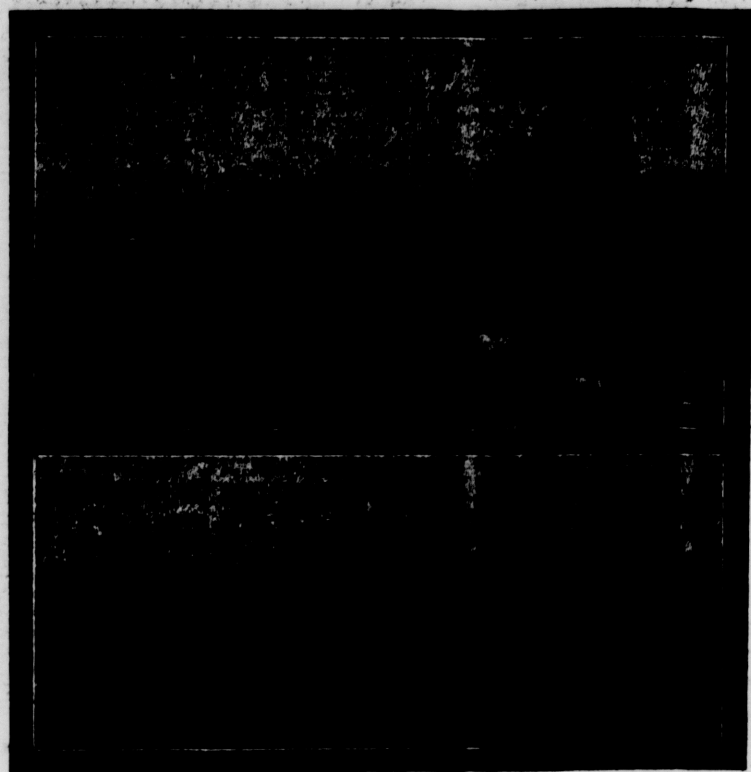

The prisoners are Mrs. Ruth Joseph and her two sisters-in-law, Miss Clara Joseph, 28 years old, and Miss Clara Joseph, 25, and merchandise valued at about $150 was found at their home, 1142 South Grand avenue.

"I received a vision in which I was told to go forth and gather the spoils," said Mrs. Joseph, who acted as spokesman for the trio.

"To the public this may seem the act of a criminal. This is a mistake. When the Lord commanded me to go forth, I started out in company with my sisters. We are missionaries and obey all commands. Our footsteps were directed to the stores from which we took these things. I was made bold, and for two weeks I have been guided."

OIL COMPANY AGENTS AFTER LEASES IN THE NEW OLIVE TERRITORY

Popplewell Ranch Leased by Standard; Ranchers Want Quick Action—Vejar Gives Lease to 150 Acres

OLIVE, July 15.—That the territory concerning the future of the section, in and around Olive is going to be a valuable new oil field is a matter that is hardly questioned here any longer. The oil company agents have been too busy and too persistent to leave much doubt upon that score. Some of those not much interested in the matter may have some question

The standard has just signed up a lease for twenty-one acres of the Popplewell ranch which lies to the south and east of the Standard well, in which all the indications of a good well are said to have been found.

The Union Oil Company is after leases, but as yet seems not to have signed up any land. The Union's declared intention is to commence drilling as soon as possible upon the most likely piece of ground it can obtain.

While the Standard has secured some three or four leases here now, it is still after others in red hot fashion.

Some of the ranchers are holding back for the reason that they do not want to lease their lands to the oil men and then have the oil men hold the lands indefinitely without trying for oil. They want to get stipulations that will insure drilling. An oil company might get control of land and be willing to pay a small amount monthly to hold it from other companies and await the development of the field.

So far the only derrick up or started is that of the Standard on the Bixby lease, a few rods off the end of Tustin avenue.

VEJAR INTERESTS NORTH OF THE RIVER HAVE GIVEN LEASE

Today there was recorded at the courthouse at Santa Ana a lease of 150 acres north of the Santa Ana river near Yorba to Brand & Stevens, oil men of Los Angeles. The lease is from J. H. Vejar and the Vejar minors. Under the lease $1200 is paid at once and $100 a month until drilling commences. One-sixth royalty is to be paid.

NEW STEAMER LINE FOR LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Los Angeles harbor was yesterday designated as one of the calling ports for the Canadian Northern Steamship Company.

The announcement, which was authoritatively made by the company, was received with much gratification by the local harbor commissioners. The company contemplates the establishment of a line of speedy turbine steamers to ply between the western terminal of the company's transcontinental line at Port Mann, B. C., and San Pedro, San Diego and San Francisco.

Simultaneously with the announcement came the news that Sir William McKenzie, president of the line, has called for bids for two turbines to be built in England. The ships will be constructed to Lloyd's highest class and must be delivered within a year.

MOVE PLANT TO CANADA TO GET WIDER MARKET

Gov. Foss Says American Manufacturers Are Crippled by Present Laws—Reciprocity His Solution

BOSTON, July 15.—Declaring that "ridiculous tariff legislation" was driving American manufacturers to Canada, and that reciprocity would surely meet the widespread demand for a lower tariff, Governor Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts issued a statement today regarding his intention to transfer the bulk of his business from Boston to Canada. He bitterly assails both the Republican and Democratic parties on the tariff question, and accuses the present administration of "paltering." The statement says:

"For more than twelve years one of the principal Massachusetts corporations which I represent has had under consideration a plan of transferring to Canada a large portion of its work. I have personally opposed this plan, and endeavored to maintain the industrial enterprise in full here in Massachusetts, but am now convinced that it is no longer possible to defer action on this matter."

"Accordingly, I make the announcement, although I do so with sincere regret, that the B. P. Sturtevant Company has just completed the purchase of a manufacturing plant in St. Catharines, Ont., and that a large part of the work which has hitherto been done at Hyde Park will now be transferred to Canada."

"All over the United States the tendency among the principal manufacturing interests is toward the establishment of plants in Canada. This movement has been going on for many years, and it is estimated that from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 of American capital is now invested in these Canadian plants. The Sturtevant Company must join the procession in order to meet the conditions of the industry, for the movement has now proceeded to a point where corporations which fail to follow are faced with serious embarrassment."

"American manufacturers have completely filled the American market and their production now is greatly in excess of the domestic demand. Under these conditions the expansion of the domestic plants is impossible and it is becoming necessary for them to curtail production."

"If they had a reasonable outlet for their surplus products, under reciprocal agreements with other countries, these industries could remain at home and grow, but under the conditions that exist they must remove in part to those countries whose markets they desire to reach."

"The Sturtevant Company no longer can ignore this movement. The industrial situation demands that it take part. Therefore, after more than a decade of effort to render this step unnecessary, it is reluctantly obliged to accept the situation and remove to Canada a part of its work, thus curtailing production in Massachusetts."

"The movement of American manufacturers to Canada could be stopped and they would remain intact in this country if it were not for the absurd conditions created by our tariff legislation."

"We should have with Canada and other countries such trade agreements as would enable us to manufacture our goods in the United States, giving employment to American workmen and utilizing only American capital."

"But such agreements would imply a recognition of the principle of reciprocity. If we were to ship the products of American factories to Canada and to Europe without the present handicaps we should require certain trade concessions from the governments of our customer nations, and in return for these concessions we should be expected to grant similar ones to the products of those countries."

HOLDS MOVIES ARE GREAT EDUCATORS

Detective Pinkerton Thinks Education Leading Factor in Reducing Crime

Los Angeles Tribune: That education will do more toward the elimination of crime from the world than any other agency was the declaration of William A. Pinkerton, head of the great detective agency in Chicago, on his arrival in Los Angeles yesterday.

That moving pictures are great educational elements, but the displaying of crime pictures on screens should be eliminated in order that they may bring out the best that is in youngsters, also is the belief of Mr. Pinkerton.

"If you will eliminate the crime picture from the motion picture theaters you have one of the greatest educational institutions in the country," he said. "They teach you concerning many places, things, and conditions that you cannot see first-hand. I am heartily in favor of the motion picture, but by all means eliminate the crime picture from the performances."

"The fact that education is reducing crime throughout the country is shown by the records. It is seldom that a highly educated man is leading a criminal life. When you do find one at it it is the exception that proves the rule."

"The old-time criminal is fast disappearing. In his place is a person who depends on his cunning and the rapidity of travel to save himself from arrest. But regardless of their cunning and the inventions at their service, they all show the lack of education, for they all make a mistake in their calculations and through this way they are caught."

Mr. Pinkerton is on a tour of inspection of his different agencies. He will remain here several days.

GARDEN GROVE HAPPENINGS

GARDEN GROVE, July 15.—A. K. Bonbournant and family returned Saturday from a week's visit in and around San Diego.

Messrs. Junkin, Oertley, and Garfield Allen have returned from a business and pleasure trip to Inyo and adjoining counties.

Benjamin Houghton, the efficient depot assistant, is visiting a week with his brother in Santa Barbara.

Mr. Souther, brother-in-law of Mrs. George Reyburn, is spending his honeymoon at the Reyburns. In addition to being wise enough to take a wife he has bought a ranch two and a half miles north of town.

The Menonite Society has begun the erection of a meeting-house on West Acacia street. Garden Grove will now have six churches.

County Y.M.C.A. Secretary R. J. Hamilton will entertain the boys of this place with an illustrated talk on the Y.M.C.A. camp at Catalina Island. The meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. building tonight.

Lloyd Casselman left Sunday for Glendora, where he has accepted a position in a packing house.

Simon Chaffee, who was seriously ill Sunday and Monday, is much improved.

Mrs. Donaldson, in company with her grand-daughter, Mrs. Isert of Kansas, is spending a week at Bay City, one of Orange county's rapidly growing beach resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Preston started Monday on an auto trip to San Diego, accompanied by Mrs. and Mrs. Henry Torrey.

The new home for Mr. Harwitz and his bride is rapidly nearing completion. It is a model of convenience and a fine addition to the lovely homes on Stanford avenue.

Late news from Marshall Keeler and wife report a glorious trip to the East.

Last Friday a farewell party was given at the Y.M.C.A. building in honor of Ruel Reed, who leaves soon for Chicago to enter school. Garden Grove will very greatly miss Mr. Reed, who is one of its finest young men. It is with a feeling of pride that his friends take leave of him, wishing him the greatest success possible in his school career.

DECIDE YOURSELF

The Opportunity is Here, Backed by Santa Ana Testimony

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement. Read Santa Ana endorsement. Read the statements of Santa Ana citizens.

And decide for yourself. Here is one case of it: F. G. Richardson, retired merchant, 826 E. St., Santa Ana, Cal., says: "For months I was troubled and on by a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back. I felt stooped, I was sure to suffer worse. I thought the trouble came from disordered kidneys and when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box. They promptly and thoroughly cured me. After that I did considerable heavy lifting and stooping, but I didn't notice a sign of kidney trouble. I have never needed any kidney medicine since. Doan's Kidney Pills cure to stay cured. I think just as highly of them now as I did when I recommended them before."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Auditorium

"A laugh from start to finish," is the general verdict of the show at the Auditorium last night, and it's a nice, clean show, too.

The Auditorium people are determined that nothing shall appear at their playhouse that can in anywise offend the most fastidious patron.

Last night there were four new "acts," every one of them good and the size of the audience proved that the people have confidence that they are to get the very best that is to be procured, if they come to the Auditorium.

There was Ham Holson, perhaps a lineal descendant of the original "Ham," who sailed with Noah, for he is as black as the ace of spades and makes one think of the genuine "down south nigger." He kept the audience in a bubble of enjoyment with a monologue along the political and social issues of the day.

Lakolo and Co., a French Pierrot, done by a German with an Indian name. Mr. Lakolo was ably assisted by a demure young miss in a series of clever juggling and balancing feats, with considerable of fun mixed in.

The Merrywells, a comedy burlesque team, comprising a ludicrous Dutch soldier and a lady in military uniform "with a sword." Incidental the lady sings an Italian character song and does a Spanish dance that are very artistic. As a finale the German comes in in a whirlwind burlesque ballet dance that storms the house and sets the audience into shrieks of laughter.

Harris and Harris, brothers, in a comedy tumbling act, also are well received. The larger of the two displays marvelous strength and the little fellow is very funny. This program remains tonight and Wednesday.

In addition to these things are three big reels of up-to-date pictures; dramatic, pathetic and humorous.

PICNIC OF IOWANS IS POSTPONED TO SATURDAY AUG. 23

The Iowans of Southern California will be interested to learn of the necessary postponement of the great annual summer outing of the Iowa Association of Southern California. The regular date for this outing is the second Saturday in August, but owing to the fact that the great annual race is to be pulled off at Santa Monica on that date, the electric roads refuse to attempt to handle the Iowans the same day.

So Iowans all over this Southland will take notice that the date is changed to Saturday, the 23rd, and the place will be in Bixby Park, at Long Beach.

President J. A. Rominger, whose home is in Long Beach, is planning to make this the largest summer outing ever given by the association, and Bixby Park is a delightful place for such a gathering. He is expecting some 15,000 to 20,000 will come together this time. Free coffee will be served to all who buy the official badge. These outings are all day affairs and are looked forward to by Iowans with great eagerness. Nearly every section sends its people to the picnic and hundreds of reunions are noticed.

All who ever lived in the state of Iowa are considered members of the association and are wanted at this outing.

Not Feeling Just Right? Read This!

Do not think that Mr. Jack Maltois of Copperopolis, Calif., would make this statement, if it were not absolutely true. He says: "I thought I would have to sell my business, for I could hardly stand on my feet and when sitting down could hardly arise on account of pain in my kidneys. I tried three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and they entirely cured me, and I have had no kidney trouble since." Foley Kidney Pills will help any case of kidney or bladder disease not beyond the reach of medicine. Rowley Drug Co. and White Cross Drug Co.—Advertisement.

PARCEL POST TERMINALS TO BE ESTABLISHED

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The principal cities of the country are to have commodious parcel post terminals to facilitate the handling of bulky packages. Experts of the postoffice department have found that the handling of the larger parcels in postal cars produces much confusion and not a little congestion.

One of the changes will be the consolidation of the 50 and 100-mile zones, known as "zones 1 and 2," which will double the radius within which "local delivery" will obtain. A new rate will be established for the enlarged localized zone which will be less than

CLOUDBURST IN OHIO CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE
ZANESVILLE, O., July 15.—Residents of Zanesville feared a repetition of the March floods today when the heavy rains which started late Sunday night developed into a cloudburst and the rainfall of 6.45 inches. More than twenty bridges were washed away, crops were ruined throughout this section, and the damage including those to farmers were estimated anywhere from $200,000 to half a million.

Thousands of acres in the lowlands of the county were under water, while in the city fifty houses were inundated to a depth of several feet. In the flood districts people found the water approaching their homes rapidly and they moved their furniture to the upper floors.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

Local ranch eggs jumped 2 cents yesterday. A continuance of the same conditions pointed out recently is apparently forcing the higher prices. The local supply is short, and a considerable quantity of eastern eggs going into consumption, but the storage needs must also be filled by the latter.

Butter was steady, and unchanged. Northern fresh cheese was up 4 cent. Futures were offered at 15 1/2, with 15 bid. Eastern dairies were easier.

In the poultry market hens were somewhat firmer.

Peaches were more plentiful and easier, owing to the receipt of large consignments from the North. A car of Fosters, a car of Crawfords and one of Strawberry Clings was reported in by one concern. The demand for the fruit was brisk. Apricots were somewhat steadier, although the supply was very good. Oregon Royal Anne and Bing cherries were received and quoted at about 12 1/2 cents a pound. A car of mixed Tragedy and Green Gage plums and nectarines were in. Nectarines were cheap, owing to the rather light demand, and the fact that the fruit is a little green.

Watermelons were a little easier, if anything, as the supply is very large. "Jumbo" and "Standard" canteloupes are the principal grades on the market. Only a few specials and ponies are received. Jumbos brought around $2 a crate generally. Casabas were unchanged. The supply was fair.

Cucumbers, tomatoes and corn were cheap. Tomatoes, particularly, showed quite a market weakness, due to the receipt of considerable quantities of locals. A fair quantity of green lima beans was received. They were offered at 3 to 4 cents a pound generally, although there was some poor stock, perhaps, a little cheaper.

AMERICAN COCKTAIL CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

WASHINGTON, July 15.—This is the anniversary of the American cocktail, that well-known ante-prandial concoction being in its seventy-eighth year. It was born in a rustic tavern on the edge of Washington, and here is the way the story of its birth goes:

One fine old Southern gentleman, John A. Hopkins, of Fairfax, Va., journeyed over to Bladensburg, Md. on July 15, 1836, to fight a duel and thereby satisfy a long-standing grudge with an enemy. The sword of his enemy pricked him severely and Hopkins becoming weak and faint, was taken to the Palo Alto Inn, where Jack Henderson, the jovial innkeeper, was called upon to minister to his wants.

On the spur of the moment Henderson invented the cocktail. It was his conception of what a real "bracer" ought to be. Its high success in bringing Hopkins "back" convinced some of the habitués of the Palo Alto that their good host had invented some drink, and though none of them was injured, they demanded some of the excellent beverage.

PLANNING FOR COUNTY CAMP

Leaders Have Made Final Arrangements For Catalina Island Outing

Saturday a number of leaders of the Y. M. C. A. camp conducted jointly by the county committees of Orange, Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties met and spent the day making final plans for the outing at Catalina Island. Arrangements have been made to accommodate forty boys from each county at the younger boys' camp from August 6 to 18 and for the same number at the camp for those 16 years of age and older from August 20 to 30. Mr. E. J. Ruenitz, group secretary of the county Y. M. C. A. work of Southern California, will be in charge of the camp. R. J. Hamilton, county secretary of Orange county will take charge of the commissary and equipment department, Mr. C. H. Hartwig, secretary of San Bernardino county will have the educational and physical department, and C. A. Gummere, secretary of Los Angeles county Y. M. C. A. will be in charge of the religious work and campfire programs. Leaders will be provided for each tent of six or seven boys, and Ben Oertly, of Garden Grove has been secured as swimming instructor. Mr. R. P. Anderson, physical director of the Pasadena Y. M. C. A. will be at the first camp and will assist as a tent leader and with all physical activities. Tom, the famous chef of the Pasadena Y. M. C. A. camp has been secured as camp cook.

The same general elective system has been adopted for securing camp honor emblems, first year boys having to win 100 points, second year, 150, and third year 200. There are seven departments into which these activities are divided, athletics, aquatics, woodcraft, scouting, campfire, religious and miscellaneous. Some of the events listed in these departments are as follows: making an athletic record, win a ribbon, climb Black Jack, trip across the island, swim 20 yards, swim 10 yards on the back,

CONGDON MOTOR CAR COMPANY, 515 North Main St.

MOTORMAN FORSTER'S STORY OF VENICE LINE WRECK

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—His narrative supervised in the telling by an employee of the Pacific Electric Company, Joseph Forster, motorman of the three-car train which Sunday night crashed into the rear of a stalled Venice short line flyer near Vineyard Junction, yesterday afternoon in the outer office of Superintendent W. C. White of the company's western division told his story of the wreck.

Mr. Forster's story included acknowledgments of the truth of several of the statements of those who are trying to make him the scapegoat in the affair, but the finished narrative tends to point over the motorman's shoulder to the Pacific Electric company's unpreparedness to cope with such a situation as arose Sunday night, and to show that unless a radical change in the operating system is made at once, similar accidents are likely to happen in the future. He said:

"When we passed Ivy station I got the train up to around sixty miles an hour, which is not an unusual speed for the flyers on the open section. As we came to a 'slow down' signal sign at a small bridge just west of the curve in the track near Vineyard Junction I slowed down to about forty miles an hour.

"Having passed the center of the curve, I put her up to perhaps fifty miles an hour, and having reached the 'slow down' sign which marks the nearing of Vineyard Junction, I began applying the brakes. It is customary to check the speed of the trains at this point very gradually, as it is only desired that the cars be fully under control when the junction is reached, which point is about 1200 feet away."

Delmar Reynolds, the Pacific Electric's representative who had Mr. Forster in hand, and who supervised the telling of the motorman's story, volunteered the statement of the distance between the "slow down" sign and the junction. Continuing his story, the motorman said:

"Shortly after the 'slow-down' sign was passed I saw a red lantern being swung at the side of the track. I was traveling at between forty and fifty miles an hour. Immediately I gave the whistle signal of acknowledgment of the danger signal—two short blasts."

Slowed Down Gradually At this point Mr. Reynolds announced that it is a common occurrence for the danger signal to be shown near the "slow-down" sign.

diving, with a beginner's or swimmers button, teach a boy to swim, demonstrate resuscitation and release, rowing, name and describe 20 varieties of birds or fish, collect and identify 15 varieties of leaves or shells, name and locate 15 stars, and constellations, photograph a wild animal, bird or fish, draw a sketch of poison oak and ivy and tell treatment for same, catch and cook a fish, tell height of tree, tie eight standard knots, box the compass, pass first aid examination, write a camp story or song or yell, send an article to home newspaper, furnish a part on campfire program, pass an examination on the camp Bible study, name divisions and books of the Bible, pass an examination on some book selected, etc., etc.

No one boy at camp is expected to do all these things, but he has his choice, trying to make the necessary number of points. It is a real part of a boy's education to learn some of these things many of which are not taught in school. It is safe to say that every boy will have a busy time at this camp and a very profitable one.

Names of those desiring to attend should be handed to R. J. Hamilton, 1047 W. Fifth street, Santa Ana, to Asked whether it was common to apply the emergency brakes upon receiving this danger signal, Mr. Reynolds said it was not.

"When I received the danger signal, somewhere on the curve just west of the junction—I don't know how far it was from the stalled train, it might have been 300 or 600 feet," Forster continued, "I put on the full-service brake—the air brakes. I judge that I dropped the train's speed to about thirty-five miles an hour. Then I got my first sight of the red tail-lights marking the end of the stalled train. I put on my emergency brakes, but I knew the distance was too short; I knew we had to collide.

"No, I did not move. I just stood there and looked ahead at the rear of the train we were rushing toward. When the collision occurred I waited until the train stopped, and then stepped off on the ground.

Danger Signal Not Obeyed When asked why he had not applied his emergency brakes immediately on receiving the danger signal near the "slow down" sign, Mr. Forster hesitated for a moment, giving Del Reynolds the opportunity to say that it was customary for the red light to be shown as a warning of the presence of cars at the junction that the motorman had believed whatever obstruction blocked the progress of his train was to be met at the junction, nearly 1200 feet away.

Here in the story told by the motorman upon whose shoulders the onus for the awful catastrophe is being forced is to be found the point on which the Pacific Electric's responsibility would seem to rest.

Mr. Forster was asked "if it was customary for the motorman on the flyer, speeding their trains up to fifty and sixty miles an hour at the 'slow-down' signal directly west of the junction, to consider a danger signal displayed near the sign to signify that there was an obstruction at the junction, and to slow down gradually instead of quickly, what protection existed for any train stalled at any point between the junction and the 'slow-down' sign?"

Mr. Forster had no answer to give to this question, nor did Mr. Reynolds. Neither did they have anything to offer to show that exactly the same kind of accident could not happen again. Also, they admitted that had the stalled train been any closer to the "slow-down" sign than it was, the result of the wreck would have been worse.

LONG BEACH, July 15.—Mrs. J. G. Meek has made a personal appeal to the Long Beach police to aid her in a search for her father, N. U. Baker, 70 years old, who disappeared from his daughter's home July 8, with $1500 in his pockets.

On the day of his disappearance Mr. Baker, whose fondness for the ocean may have prompted him to go to Long Beach or some of the other resorts, took with him the $1500 in greenbacks and it is the fear that showing the money to strangers may have resulted in his death or detention. He is described as being six feet tall, with

Save $200 when you build your next house

In these days there is no more use for chimneys to a house than a fifth wheel to a wagon. You either break up the contour of rooms to accommodate inside chimneys or put a smear of brick on the outside. Chimneys cost money. Then you build sheds to house the fuel. You can save $200 or more on any sort of a house by cutting out this expense and using gas.

Suppose you save only $200 on that new house. That $200 would buy you a kitchen range, two or three gas heaters, and other gas appliances to the extent of $50 and the other $150 would pay for the gas used for four or five years. Gas is the modern manner for heating, cooking and lighting, and the time is coming when chimneys in a house will be obsolete. Nine-tenths of the heat goes up the chimney—some of the smoke and most of the dirt gets into the room.

A Gas Range Needs No Chimney

Telephone 265 and one of our salesmen will call and tell you all about the efficiency and economy—time-saving and money-saving—of this wonderful gas range bargain. This range has an 18-inch oven, a giant burner and three small burners and a simmerer—use these various burners intelligently and you can greatly reduce the cost of living.

NOTHING IN IT SAY WEATHER SHARPS

St. Swithin's Day Prediction Hasn't Worked in Washington in Twenty Years

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Although —being scientific—they scorned the superstition, some of Uncle Sam's best weather sharps curiously enough marked down today's brand of weather for reference during the next two score days.

This is St. Swithin's Day. Ancient English legends have it that if it rains today there will be forty days of rain to follow, and that if it remains clear, there will follow forty days of clear weather. There was a St. Swithin all right, back in the days of long ago and the legend is older than the hills. That seems to be as far as it goes, for one of the ruthless, unromantic weather sharps today looked up the dope for the same day for twenty years back, and had this to say:

"St. Swithin falls in a month in which more rain falls here in Washington than during any other period of the year. Nevertheless, the records show that, taking the average for twenty years, of the forty days which follow July 15, the greater part were rainy when St. Swithin's Day was a fine old day. There never have been forty consecutive days of rain or clear weather following St. Swithin's Day, as far as I can learn."

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., July 15.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is here quietly arranging for his big hunt and Indian investigation. The Colonel and two sons, Archie and Quentin, are keeping much to themselves, avoiding the public as much as possible while they are preparing for the strenuous trip before them.

In a few days their outfit will drop into the canyon and cross the Colorado river by way of Bass' cable ferry and invade the virgin forest of northern Arizona and southern Utah, where probably not half a dozen white men have ever ventured.

This district abounds with mountain lion, bear and deer. After completing the hunt, the Colonel and party will journey to the Moquilian reservation and witness the Moqui snake dance, one of the weirdest Indian ceremonies ever witnessed by white men, which is held annually by this tribe.

LONG BEACH, July 15.—Mrs. J. G. Meek has made a personal appeal to the Long Beach police to aid her in a search for her father, N. U. Baker, 70 years old, who disappeared from his daughter's home July 8, with $1500 in his pockets.

On the day of his disappearance Mr. Baker, whose fondness for the ocean may have prompted him to go to Long Beach or some of the other resorts, took with him the $1500 in greenbacks and it is the fear that showing the money to strangers may have resulted in his death or detention. He is described as being six feet tall, with

SECRETARY BRYAN SURPRISES CAPITAL

Washington Fails to Understand Why He Cannot Live Within Income

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Washington is intensely interested in the new Bryan who can't live on $12,000 a year. His announcement that he must eke out his official salary by lecture fees, struck Washington all of a heap.

That the great Commoner, "apostle of the poor men," assailant of all officials who mingle their private with their official business, should confess failure to make both ends meet on a thousand a month and turn his back on official business for private gain, gave even his devoted friends food for thought. His enemies were quick to deride.

It is not surprising that Mr. Bryan is spending more than $12,000 a year in Washington, but Washington supposed he had far more to spend. Estimates of his fortune range from $500,000 to $1,000,000. Although the grape juice policy announced for his social affairs should mean a saving of $2000 annual wine bill, the upkeep of Calumet place, the home the Secretary leased from Mrs. John A. Logan, on the scale the Bryans have adopted, would easily be much more than $12,000 a year.

Since March 4, no official in Washington has been a more sought after dinner guest than Secretary Bryan. Wealthy members of the most fashionable set were greatly interested in Mr. Bryan before he arrived, wondering if he had horns and determined to inspect him across the dinner table. It was an open secret in March that he would be diligently "rushed." He was. Moreover, he thrived on days filled with office-seekers and cabinet councilors and nights choked with dinners and receptions. The Nebraska's personal attire reflected the transformation. What is left of his luxuriant hair was more carefully trimmed and finally one Sunday afternoon he was observed on Potomac drive gingerly steering his wife's new electric automobile.
